We are using ember-auto-select-hidden-value-helper to hide the selected value of a list, it works like a charm. I am now trying to move a div right after the select, and it shows the previously selected value in the first item of the dropdown (so the value is already active), thus preventing the user from selecting it again (it then will be in its initial active state) I am using the same component twice on two separate views, the helper is being applied to the first one, as the second one needs to show the select, empty, and hide the dropdown, for the first to work. How could I move the div before the select? Also, I would need some help to understand how this helper works : {{#auto-select-hidden-value value=model.product}} {{customer-profile/item-details-list quantity=model.product.quantity}} {{/auto-select-hidden-value}} Here the component import Ember from 'ember'; export default Ember.Component.extend({ currentRecipient: undefined, quantity: null, hiddenValueHelpers: ['auto-select-hidden-value'], brand: null, delivery: null, price: null, color: null, size: null,

Consume a small amount of resources and don't take up your valuable space Comments Like this: The Life Sciences is a game that has received many awards for the concept, unique gameplay and graphics. The idea behind the game is to play with ten different modes that all include different challenges and objectives. For instance, in the Live Cell mode, the goal is to make the cells become fuller. As you would expect, the greater the density, the higher the stock. As the cells grow, the ladder will automatically adapt to meet the requirements of the current mode. Some levels require dealing with biological or chemical hazards, while in some there is an artificial obstacle or an enhanced level of natural intelligence that will fight against you. As you run out of time or if you go too far, the ladder will become empty, and you will have to start over again from the beginning. The Life Sciences has a full list of modes that includes: ? Cell ? Live Cell ? Invasion ? Lab ? Switch ? Dash ? Duos ? Duels ? Elimination ? Maze ? Sequences ? Pass ? Climb ? Boost ? De-boost Each mode requires your attention to the details of the difficulty level you wish to face, and the game will save the best experiences so you don't have to redo the part you are having a hard time with. In this way, the game will save the best scores of each challenge, which will allow you to review the performance of your best moments. All levels are divided into two parts, the tutorial and the main course.
