We report on the fortuitous detection in a British woman of a variant form of Rothmund-Thomson syndrome (RTS) associated with a t(11;22) translocation leading to the fusion of the ETS1 gene on 22q11 with the RXR gene on 11q13. This mutation leads to the formation of a chimeric ETS1-RXR protein in which part of the ETS1 "winged helix" domain is fused to the DNA binding domains of RXR and other members of the ETS family of transcription factors. Our patient had facial features and physical features of RTS, but these were not of a particularly severe degree. The severity of the syndrome in our patient may have been due to a yet undescribed modifier gene located on 22q11. FILED NOT FOR PUBLICATION FEB 22 2011 MOLLY C. Spelling Bee Practice Software allows you to create your own highly interactive spelling dictionary and improve your vocabulary knowledge. You can also practice your spelling ability and become a bit of a "competitor" by comparing your word with a friend's word or by practicing against the computer. Most of the Spelling Bee Practice Software programs on our website are freeware, shareware and shareware and are released to the general public without restriction and all of them are fully functional and can be uninstalled when no longer needed. Dictionary creation The Spelling Bee Practice Software gives you the opportunity to easily create your own bespoke dictionary, containing the desired words, whatever word you would like to practice. After configuring the size of the dictionary, you can upload the file to a file server or to your computer using a USB-connection. For those of you who have no experience in configuring files on the hard drive of their computer, the process is extremely easy. The Dictionary is organized alphabetically and lists the chosen words next to the alphabet, where the list can be expanded and decreased by pressing the buttons next to the list of words. In addition to this, it is possible to add any new word by pressing the plus button and to delete words by pressing the minus button. So, Spelling Bee Practice Software gives you full control over the process of creating your own Dictionary. Spelling practice Once you have uploaded your dictionary file onto the hard drive of your computer, you can start practicing. The software will allow you to choose words from the dictionary and will ask for the definition of the words you choose. You will then need to spell the word, which will be read out by your own voice and corrected by the software. The time can be set to any value you desire, such as one second, five seconds, one minute or five minutes. After finishing the test, the software will let you know how you did, using a graph showing the percentage of words you have spelled correctly, incorrect and misspelled. Spelling competition The Spelling Bee Practice Software is also capable of allowing you to compete with your friends or other people in a similar situation. Therefore, you can choose your own words, upload them to the software and then choose your friends or other people who also have access to the software. You can then compare your words with theirs and test yourself. You can therefore choose to view your own word or view the word of your friend or other person. These configurations can be modified according to our needs
