Cellular differentiation of the cerebral cortex involves the inductive influence of the basal plate surface. During brain development, cells are exposed to two major gradients. One is of growth factor concentrations. The other is of cell surface differentiation. To investigate the effect of the latter, we incorporated into the embryo a ligand for the fibroblast growth factor receptor (FGFR), and specifically designed this receptor to trigger differentiation of a cell only when attached to a cell expressing a particular region of its ligand, FGF2. We demonstrate that differentiation occurs only at the surface of those cells expressing FGF2, and that the same tissue region is involved throughout central nervous system development.Q: Silverlight Toolkit

DataGridViewTemplateColumn For content I have recently started using Silverlight Toolkit Data Grid Control.I have a requirement to show Title as TextBox and if user enters a particular value in TextBox then "Customer Supplied" should be shown in a single cell for that row. I know DataGridViewTemplateColumn can be used to customize template of DataGridView Row but I am struggling to know how to use different Template for individual column like above requirement. Any direction will be appreciated. Thanks A: You can try to change the RowTemplate for the Column in the GridView's RowCreated event:

The application will also store the newly created xml files, ready for future use. All web site URL parameters are passed to the application. Download: Tortuga is an ultra-fast Mac OS X Application that displays weather data graphically for you, now in the form of animated line charts. Developed by Max Osborne, Tortuga provides a graphical and interactive way to access many of the freely-available global weather forecast databases for most parts of the world. It automatically gives you relevant current and forecast data for the next two days including hourly data, temperature data, precipitation data, and pressure data. You can choose from more than 30,000 U.S. cities and more than 85,000 cities in the world, as well as automatic selection of the nearest global forecast location based on your address and the current time. Data such as surface temperature, wind speed, pressure, and precipitation will be provided for the next two days in over a hundred cities. You can even specify the time of day you want the data to be provided for. And all this is presented on a smooth background animation! Tortuga is now included in a Macintosh bundle that also includes Weather Display, Need for Speed and the Anarchists Creed. Download Tortuga from Or contact max at devbox.tortuga-mac.com for the 6.2 MB version.
