Celtic discography The discography of Celtic, a Scottish Celtic fusion band, consists of six studio albums, one live album, three extended plays (EPs), two compilation albums, five singles, and two music videos. Celtic's debut studio album, Lightning Strike, was released in 1987. It peaked at number-one on the UK Albums Chart and contains the top-three hit "A Man I've Never Knew". The album sold over one million copies worldwide and was certified as platinum in the UK and the USA. In 1992, its title track was used for ITV's coverage of the 1992 Winter Olympics. Celtic's second studio album, Cry Wolf, was released in 1988 and reached number-one in the UK album chart. The album also provided the band with their first top-five single, "Lilac Wine", which reached number two on the UK Singles Chart. Cry Wolf was produced by Steve Anderson and had a more acoustic sound than their debut album. The third studio album, 1991's The Best of Celtic, achieved a much lower chart position, reaching only number four on the UK Albums Chart. A top-five single, "Turbo Lover", reached number two on the UK Singles Chart. The
