Although Photoshop has many tools available, the ones I use most often are shown in Figure 3-4. Note: When doing any type of color selection, I work in Black & White mode. ## Making selections The two most basic functions in Photoshop are using a selection tool and filling a selection with a _color._ Be careful with the selections that you make, because you can be thrown out of the work you've created if you move objects around or inadvertently select them.

This beginners' guide for Adobe Photoshop Elements 2018 will teach you how to edit and convert any image, adjust the colors, adjust the lighting, add background patterns, text, add effects and more. Edit & Adjust Images If you want to edit or make edits in Photoshop Elements, you have to be connected to a computer with an internet connection in order to download the program. Select the image you want to edit, and you'll see a floating window below the image with various options. Use the tools there to edit the image like changing its size, colors, brightness and contrast, or add text. After you select the image that you want to edit, the latest version of Photoshop Elements opens with the filters that you can use to make some changes. You can either use the filters in the drop-down menu or use the Filter button to find a filter to apply. Make sure you apply the filter after adjusting the image as it may get skewed if you apply filters to the image before you make the adjustments. You can also download and use Photoshop brushes on the website. The filter is useful if you want to get an idea of how an adjustment might look. Use the slider to adjust it, and you'll see how it applies to the image. Apply it or not as you wish. Go to Image>Adjustments>Brightness/Contrast and the brightness and contrast will be applied. Change the color of the image using the Hue/Saturation tool. Make any changes that you like to the colors, brightness and contrast of the image. If you want, click on the eyedropper tool at the bottom-right corner to make a color selection. You'll also find the brush at the bottom-right corner. Change the color of the image using the color filter. Add a new background or photo to a picture. Select the photo or image that you want to add to the photo, and then click on the plus sign at the bottom of the screen. Select a photo or use the "Browse" option and select a photo to use. Click on the photo, and then select one that you wish to use from the pre-prepared collection. Click on the Brush tool, and then use it to paint with the colors that you like. You can also use the Eyedropper tool to select a color from a color 05a79cecff

For most people, farting is a pretty natural bodily function and not particularly dirty or embarrassing. However, for people with irritable bowel syndrome (IBS), one too many bowel movements can be enough to make them feel awful, and the resulting discomfort can make them feel embarrassed about even simple activities. Here are 10 IBS-related farts that will make you feel better.

1. The Angry Fart The Angry Fart is rather a popular one. It's an explosive fart that is so loud that you won't be able to hear yourself fart, which comes in several different types, including the Phaser, the Explosive, and the Black Hoser. They can be easily spotted since they leave behind huge amounts of black smoke. The Angry Fart normally occurs when a person burps, but it can also occur right after the person has a bowel movement. It seems that it occurs because of the gas trapped in the bowel and has nothing to do with the person burping.
2. The Good Fart The Good Fart is a much better experience than the Angry Fart and it's quite lovely. It occurs when someone successfully manages to let out a flatulence without any explosive moments. This one is much gentler than the others and is most likely to happen to someone who's constipated. It's as if someone has successfully taken a poo, so when released, you have a silent fart.
3. The Flying Fart The Flying Fart is a fart that is meant to get you out of a tight spot or an awkward situation. The fart will appear to suddenly explode and travel great distances.
4. The Elbow-to-the-Lung Fart If you ever fart in a class and a teacher bends over you or if you get too close to someone in a position where they might stumble, you may be in for a Flight-to-Elbow Fart. This one is unexpected and is usually meant to surprise the person who is bending over you or is getting too close to you.
5. The Derpy Fart Derpy Farts occur when someone burps while they fart and they do it in such an odd manner that it looks like they are weeping.
6. The Moving Fart This is the fart that you don't see coming. It appears to suddenly

Over the past few years, Uber has made some sort of announcement about VR almost every other month. At its recent blog, CEO Dara Khosrowshahi announced the company was going to “build a new team in the VR space that will ensure that we are fully prepared for the future, be able to make the best decisions regarding technology, bring in the best talent, and stay ahead of changes that will affect the industry.” It looks like the new group is hitting the ground running. In the last week, Uber has hired former Google VR, Intel, and Vrse employees including Dylan Jobe, Blaise Medeiros, Rich Reitman, and Dan O'Boyle. Some of those who have been hired on by Uber are well-known VR developers and industry workers, such as Rich Reitman. He worked at Keywords before joining Intel, and has also done work with Mixed Reality Planet and Oculus Story Studio, a division of Oculus VR. Last year he worked with Vrse and developed Fulldive, a virtual reality game for Black Sky's Sword of Ascent, a VR game that utilizes motion-controlled gun play. He also worked on the VR sports game Sportsfriends. Reitman's replacement at Uber is Dan O'Boyle. O'Boyle was the former director of Creative for Google's consumer product group. Prior to that he was the global head of Creative at Vrse. He has created many well-known VR games including Flux, Guided Access, and Liminal. His company, Jaunt VR, has also created other VR games including Adam's Venture. He is also a well-known VR speaker, having spoken at TED and the Cannes Lions conference. Blaise Medeiros was also hired this week. Medeiros worked at Oculus until last year, when he was let go by the VR platform. While there, he worked on the development of Project Santa Cruz, a VR app created by Oculus for users to discover their favorite films. Medeiros' previous company is Black Sky Entertainment. His company created several VR titles, including Truck Driver Diaries and Fulldive. Uber's search for a new leader to help oversee the company's move into VR was rumored last month. Since then, the company has hired several people. Update: Screenshots of some of the people Uber
