The company provides full-scale print, mail and marketing solutions to corporate and governmental clients across a range of industries including public-safety and fire protection, mobility solutions, a variety of service industries, healthcare, construction and manufacturing. With the first public demonstration of their new ISV-5 terminals at MIX, the company is now shipping them to all of their customers for use. Richard Friesen, President, BWS, Inc., "We're thrilled to be able to show these new upgrades to our customers at MIX. Our customers are excited about the new ISV-5 terminals that are a totally new product line and the speed and reliability that they offer. When they are paired with our digital printing solutions, they'll become an unbeatable offering." Based in North Carolina, BWS is a $400 million privately-held company with more than 1,000 associates located throughout the U.S. They've received many awards and accolades for their technology and they continue to expand their product line. BWS was founded by Dr. Robert Bedford in North Carolina in 1984. With just five employees, they became a leader in the industry as a manufacturer of digital print systems. When the company relocated to Virginia, they achieved their goal of 50 employees. This year marks their 25th anniversary. In the 26 years since, they've acquired a wide variety of technology from their competitors. All of it has been added to what is now a comprehensive line of solutions. In the last two years, BWS has added significant engineering talent to their offerings and is on track to match if not exceed their 2015 performance. And, they're not slowing down. "Our top priority is to continue to invest in the company to help us grow and gain a larger customer base," added Friesen. New Year,
