Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an electrical connector, and particularly to a cage-type connector that serves as a ground connector for two adjacent connectors. 2. Description of Related Art In order to prevent EMI radiation between adjacent connectors of a computer system, a ground connector is commonly provided between the two adjacent connectors. The ground connector has a number of ground contacts that engage with a ground contact of the adjacent connector by some elastic fingers. The ground contact can be a pin, a trace or a frame. However, the ground contact of the conventional ground connector is fixedly held in the connector. The connector is fixedly mounted in the computer system by a screwing or press-fit operation. Accordingly, the connector cannot be easily removed from the computer system when the system is repaired or upgraded.
