[Event-free survival after the composite outcome (including MI, stroke, or death)].(pone.0108361.g002){#pone-0108361-g002} Discussion {#s4} ===== This study demonstrates that statin therapy initiated before (rather than after) MI can effectively lower LDL-C and reduce the incidence of a composite of MI, stroke, or death in patients with previous MI. To our knowledge, this is the first randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled trial to study this issue. The prevalence of MI and the risk of recurrent events remain high despite improvements in the management of patients with coronary artery disease. Therefore, preventive approaches, including statin therapy, are crucial in the reduction of new and recurrent events. Data from an earlier randomized clinical trial by Joslin et al. [pone.0108361-Wright1] suggested that the onset of statin therapy later after the acute event after MI increases the risk of MI, particularly among patients with diabetes. To date, a number of studies have evaluated the optimal timing of statin therapy after MI, but the results of these trials were inconclusive. Jee et al. [pone.0108361-Jee1] demonstrated in a subgroup analysis of the HPS-2-THRIVE trial that early initiation of statin therapy (
