After the cover and the reveal of this title last month, you guys were all very curious about my thoughts on it. Well it's finally time to divulge them. You see, due to the radical change of the title (shifting from Berserk Arc IV to a new series) it was rather difficult to gather my thoughts on this new title. However after its release I was able to finally get my hands on this property and put my thoughts into words based on playing through the final chapter: Suspension of disbelief done right. Written by Clive Barker in 1986 the story was drastically different from what was expected of a fantasy action role-playing game. A simple setting of Swords and Sorcery rules and the tale of a man named Griffith and his pursuer Erwin (King Galladon) would be unlike anything RPG fans had ever seen before. However this all came together in a unique and captivating tale that gripped the reader and held no punches. Over the years the titular character of Griffith has resonated with many readers, enough to make the book one of the defining works of the genre. While it may not always be praised for the voice acting, there is no denying how powerful and soulful the story is. Forget Game of Thrones, this is how true fantasy should be done. While the story did put a fun twist on fantasy, it was the gameplay that was the real gem and where this title came to life. Using the myriad of mechanics set forth by the whims of Terry Gilliam (Mr. Bad Game) it integrates battle with the story. Character development and the story itself are the name of the game. During my playthrough of the game I was constantly dealing with moral dilemmas which affected story progression. This forced me to face a few tough decisions that would effect fate and the entire theme of the game. This approach makes it quite refreshing as you are constantly confronted with tough choices with their own set of consequences. While exploring the lands and dungeons people were constantly dying but this was not an issue as you could just revive them. The game also gives you the ability to revive your allies if they die such as allowing you to take control of allied troops in a multiplayer showdown. Arm yourself with the best equipment, it is going to be a dangerous journey. Finally
