A: You need to remove the HTML tags, which contains the data you want. Also add the `html_strip_all_tags` filter before the print statement. #N.B. | This filter does not preserve the HTML formatting, do not use for text lines #N.B. | This is to protect the output and you can go with just print statement

print(request.GET.get('page')) filter_html(BeautifulSoup(html_strip_all_tags(request.GET.get('page')), 'html.parser').findAll('div', attrs={'class': 'product-listing'}))

print(request.GET.get('page')) A: You can just

---

use strip_tags() to strip the HTML tags. from bs4 import BeautifulSoup import requests import re import json r = requests.get( ",
headers={"user-agent": "Mozilla/5.0
(Windows NT 10.0; WOW64)
AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/47.0.2526.80 Safari/537.36"} ) b = BeautifulSoup(r.content) for i in b.find_all('p', class_="product-name"): print(i.text.strip())
#John Adams #-255 If you do not want to use BeautifulSoup, you can use lxml and xpath to parse the HTML and return the text node, like this: from lxml import html r = requests.get(
", headers={"user-agent": "Mozilla/5.0
(Windows NT 10.0; WOW64)
AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/47.0.2526.80 Safari/537.36"} ) html
= html.parse
