To work, the plugin must be compatible with the theme engine. WordPress supports the HTML5 doctype as its default. I chose to support this script in the light of its popularity, given by the supported themes. The inclusion of the linter allows to check the code of every file and check that it is well written. Although the language support is set in the plugin, I also like to work in English, therefore I use the United States of America as my country.

Install If you are using a v5.0+ WP Arcade Plugin, the instructions are the same as before: If you do not have an Arcade Plugin (v5.4.5.0 or higher), download the archive. The v5.4.5.0 setup is compatible with. The current instruction provide for a v5.4.0.0 release (only the.zip does not yet exist). Download Download the zip archive or the direct link to the.rar (Windows users).

Install Extract the contents of the archive into your WordPress Plugin directory or put a folder wp-arcade-plugin into your Plugins directory. You can keep the ZIP-archive, but it is not necessary. The files within the ZIP-archive of the new version are included in the main package. Only the following files are new.

Directory	File

The role of the Global Framework for Tobacco Control in advocating for smokefree policies across Africa. Despite progress in anti-tobacco policies and regulations, tobacco is the leading cause of preventable death in Africa and the second in the world. Tobacco's entry into these countries follows a regional pattern and was preceded by, among other factors, the trade liberalisation of these countries and close to ten billion dollars of foreign direct investment in tobacco production. This contribution examines the potential for the Global Framework for Tobacco Control (GFTT) to play a role in influencing policies in Africa, particularly those of the World Trade Organisation (WTO). By considering the agency of civil society to pressure powerful institutions, we argue for the inclusion of GFTT on the agenda of the WTO.

Treatment of lyme disease improves CT and MRI features in a patient with central nervous system and renal involvement. A 25-year-old Caucasian male presented with a 4-year history of arthralgia, muscle pain and fatigue. He was diagnosed with Lyme disease after a positive IgM test, but serological conversion did not occur. His symptoms worsened while taking antibiotics, and the patient was transferred to a tertiary care centre. He developed progressive weakness, headache, diplopia, vomiting and dysarthria. He also complained of bilateral lower limb weakness, a new onset of ataxia and urinary retention. Lumbar puncture was performed and there was a slight increase in pleocytosis. The patient's illness was complicated by a Candida infection. There was no improvement of symptoms or laboratory parameters following 3 weeks of intravenous penicillin and 1 week of intravenous gentamycin. His symptoms worsened and he developed a severe staphylococcal infection. The patient was treated with intravenous vancomycin for the candidiasis, vancomycin for the staphylococcal infection, and amoxicillin for the Lyme disease. Following treatment, urinary output returned to normal and laboratory data were normal except for the presence of intrathecal antibodies in the cerebrospinal fluid. He continued to improve and symptoms resolved after a total of 8 weeks of antibiotic treatment. At follow-up CT and MRI studies conducted 6 months following admission showed a decrease in the size of the hyperintense lesions in the
