I have a SQL Server 2005 database that has two tables. One is a master table, the other is a lookup table. The master table records the name of a product and the price of that product. The lookup table records the part of the product that makes it to the table and what price it is. I have two queries that do basically the same thing and they are dependent on each other. They look like this

```
SELECT DISTINCT * FROM
Tables.tblProducts LEFT JOIN
```

Tables.tblPricings ON tblPricings.id
= tblProducts.id WHERE id IN (150,
